Comments Report

6. Open Response:

6.1) What are the strengths of this course?

- All course material is available at the start of the semester and allows students to work at their own pace.

- It teaches you how to use programs that can be extremely useful if you are planning to go into management or some other type of office setting job.

- Learning Material

- The strengths of this course is that everything is through Cengage, and it is easy to navigate and work through all of the assignments. All of the assignments were open which allowed me to try and work ahead and plan my work with my schedule.

- its a course that promotes accountability and responsibility to complete work within a reasonable time frame. It contains all 3 types of leaning process. auditory, visual and hands on.

- you could practice the assignments

6.2) What changes would you recommend that would improve this course?

- Allow trial and error when student is performing tasks. I have missed several question because I accidentally pressed the wrong button.

- BC utilizes D2l, I think all instructors should be required to use D2L before using 3rd party apps like Cengage. While Cengage was user friendly, I was annoyed to have paid my tuition for the course and then be hit with another fee just to access my course material through Cengage.

- Nothing

- none

- none.

6.3) Any further, constructive comments?

- Cengage was easy to navigate, but during some of the exams it seemed too rigid with how a task was completed. For example, there might be multiple ways to complete a specific task in Excel, but Cengage seemed like it would only accept a single path through specific menu options.

- N/A
